

Gather the family and try the off-the-cuff fun of Impromptus!

Cut out the questions below, shuffle them, and then give each person a chance to pick a card and try to speak on the subject for two full minutes (just like we do in Speakers League!).

Have someone be the timekeeper and provide a signal at 1-minute, 1½-minutes, and 2-minutes.

Everyone should try to make it to at least 2-minutes but stop before 2½-minutes!

If you could pick a different time in history to have been born, what would it be, and why?

What is your idea of a perfect family vacation?

Would you rather be a monkey, a sea gull, or a dolphin, and why?

If you could have any superhero power, what would it be, and why?

What is one of your earliest memories? Why do you think that memory stuck with you?

What do you like most about school, and what do you like least about school, and why?

If you could wake up tomorrow being fluent in any language, or an expert with any musical instrument, what would you choose, and why?

"One day, at the park, an alien spaceship landed . . ."
Finish the story.

What is your favorite book or movie, and why?

Which family pet has been your favorite, or what pet would you like your family to get, and why?
